From the Antwerp Courant, dated June 26.

Palermo, May 12.

THE Troops which arriv'd here ſome Days ago from Spain, are diſtributed in the Neighbouring Villages to refreſh themſelves there. Two Tranſports, with Horſes aboard them, and which 'twas fear'd were loſt, came ſafe hither two Days ago. M. Maboni is gone Poſt to Meſſina, but is expected here again in a ſhort time. The Arrival of theſe Troops has in ſome meaſure chear'd up the Hearts of ſome of the Inhabitants of this Iſland; but the Fear we are in of being Attack'd by the Allies ſtill continues; and that too the rather becauſe 'tis much ſuſpected, that many Perſons are not well affected to the preſent Government, but wait only for an Opportunity to declare openly for the Houſe of Auſtria. A great Sum of Money is demanded of the Clergy of this Kingdom, for the ſupport of the Militia. All the Inhabitants of our Fortify'd Towns have Orders to provide themſelves with Proviſions for ſix Months.

From the Bruſſels Gazette, dated June 26.

Naples, May 29. On Thurſday our Viceroy Count Taun, went with the Counteſs his Wife, and a Retinue of ſeveral Coaches and Six Horſes, to Reſina, to ſee the Palace he had order'd to be got ready there for her to dwell in, during his abſence upon the Expedition to Sicily, for which he is haſtening the Preparations with the utmoſt Diligence. He has order'd 300 Foot to march and reinforce the Troops at Piombino, from whence we have receiv'd Advice, that the Detachment which was intrench'd in the Iſland of Porto-Longone, has been vigorouſly attack'd by the Spaniſh Garriſon of the Fortreſs, that the ſaid Detachment was forc'd to retire with ſome Loſs, and that in this Action many Spaniſh Soldiers deſerted to the Troops of the Garriſon, and are gone into the Place with them. The Perſons diſaffected to the Government are ſtill daily taken up, and committed to our Caſtles, which are full of them, particularly of the meaner ſort of People, who cannot forbear talking againſt the preſent Government: One of them, a Maſter-Shoomaker, was whipt two Days ago, and ſent to the Galleys, for having run up and down the Streets, crying out, God Save Philip V. He would have been condemn'd to be hang'd but that it appear'd he was in Drink. The Dutcheſs of Matalone is ſolliciting to get a Paſs-port to go to Barcelona, to intercede for the Duke her Husband, who continues ſtill a cloſe Priſoner in the new Caſtle. General Caraffa commands the Troops that are drawing together in the Neighbourhood of Reggio in Calabria for the Expedition againſt Sicily. A Veſſel coming from St. Maur, laden with Corn for this City, had the misfortune to be taken by the Privateers of Meſſina, who took away her Rudder, and were carrying her into that Port: But the Maſter of the Veſſel made a ſort of Rudder of Planks, and found means to eſcape in the Night; and making all the Sail he could, is ſafely arriv'd here.

From the Amſt. and Leid. Gazettes, dated June 29.

Naples, June 5. The Viceroy has receiv'd poſitive Orders from Barcelona to confiſcate all the Effects which belong to the Perſons who are known to be diſaffected to the Government. 'Tis ſaid the King deſigns to take off the Impoſts upon Meal, Fleſh, and Wine, and to lay them on Tobacco, Cards, and Brandy, in order to eaſe the common People by leſſening the Prices of the neceſſary Proviſions, which are all very dear, except Wine. The Collateral Council ſate on Thurſday upon the Affair of the Diſturbance that happen'd at Barletta, againſt the Tribunal of the Town of Trani. A Thouſand Germans are ready to embark for Porto Longone in Tuſcany, which Place they are to attack in conjunction with ſome other Troops. The Viceroy, by the conſent of the Collateral Council, has given Orders to put in Execution the Suſpenſion of the Eccleſiaſtical Revenues, that are paid to Foreigners, and to confiſcate the Eſtates of the Subjects of this Kingdom who are ill affected to the preſent Government. King Charles has ſent Orders hither, that all who bear Offices in this Kingdom, and refuſe to comply with his Commands, ſhall be forthwith ſent to Barcelona. Our Viceroy has Order'd that the remaining part of the Free Gift of 300000 Crowns which this Capital granted his Majeſty ſome time ago, be forthwith remitted to him. Two Galleys of Malthat are put in at Puzzolo, with two Veſſels one of Venice, the other of Genoa, that brought from Civita-Vecchia 300 Soldiers, whom the Pope has ſent to the Service of the Great Maſter: They touch'd at Genoa, where they took in 90000 Piſtoles, which were exacted from the Commandries of the Order of Maltha, Situate in that State.

From the Bruſſels Gazette, dated June 26.

Vienna, June 9. On the 7th in the Evening the Ambaſſador of Portugal went incognito to the Village of Inzerſtorf, about a League from hence, whither he had ſent the Night before his Retinue and his Equipage: His Train conſiſted of 16 Gentlemen, 12 Pages, 30 Footmen, 6 Grooms with each of them a Led-Horſe, 7 Coaches and 6 Horſes, the 3 firſt of them very rich: His Livery was Scarlet, cover'd with Silver Galloon. When the Coaches of the Ambaſſador of Venice, and of the Prince and Biſhop of Vienna arriv'd, the March began and when they came to the Mountain, the Ambaſſador was met and complimented by the Count of Waldſtein, Marſhal of the Court, who brought with him two of the Emperour's Coaches and Six Horſes, and a great Number of the Coaches of the Miniſters and Perſons of the firſt Quality belonging to the Emperial Court. The Secretary of the Embaſſy, and the Baron of Rueſenſtein, Secretary and Interpreter to the Emperour went into one of his Imperial Majeſty's Coaches, and the Ambaſſador and Great Marſhal into the other. The Imperial Harbinger rode on Horſeback in the Front, and was follow'd by the Coaches of the Foreign Miniſters and Lords of the Court, by the Emperour's Coach in which was the Secretary of the Embaſſy, and by the Ambaſſador's 30 Footmen, after whom came the Imperial Coach in which his Excellence was, with two of the Emperour's Footmen walking on each ſide of it. Next came the 12 Pages on Horſeback, with the Ambaſſadors Equerry at their Head, after them the 6 Horſes led by the Grooms, his Excellencies firſt Coach, the Coaches of the Venetian Ambaſſador and of the Biſhop of Vienna, and laſt the 6 other Coaches of the Ambaſſador, in which were his Gentlemen and other Officers. In this Order they paſs'd before the Favorita, and entring into the City by the Gate of Carinthia, went to the Ambaſſador's Palace, and Yeſterday about Noon the Count of Dietrichſtein, Knight of Maltha, came thither, with the ſame two Coaches of the Emperour, and taking up the Ambaſſador, who was follow'd by his own Coaches, and by thoſe of the Venetian Ambaſſador and of the Biſhop of Vienna, conducted him to the Favorita, where he had Audience of their Imperial Majeſties, and thence to the Imperial Palace in this City, where he had Audience likewiſe of the Empreſs-Dowager and of the Arch-Dutcheſſes.
